Bishop Malcolm Retiring

- Bishop Malcolm's final day in post will be Thursday, 30 April 2026.
- Bishop Malcolm was installed as the Suffragan Bishop of Repton on Sunday, 18 April 2021, following his consecration as bishop at Lambeth Palace on Wednesday, 14 April 2021. He was formerly Chief of Staff to Archbishop John Sentamu, the Archbishop of York, and was educated at Queen's College, Cambridge.
- On making the announcement, Bishop Malcolm said, "It remains a joy and a privilege to me to serve as Suffragan Bishop here in the Diocese of Derby, and I look forward to continuing to share in ministry with Bishop Libby and all my colleagues across the diocese until I retire at the end of April.
- The Rt Revd Libby Lane, Bishop of Derby, said, "I thank God for Bishop Malcolm and all he has brought to our Diocese. He is a generous, gentle and gracious colleague whose servant leadership has been transformative for me in my ministry and for our common life.
- So many have benefited from his encouragement and care across our parishes, in the Parish Support Team and in the Board of Education. We have been richly blessed that he responded faithfully to the call to serve his episcopal ministry among us.
- Malcolm's ministry spans decades, the breadth of the Church of England and the wider Anglican Communion: we owe him a huge debt of gratitude."

New Archdeacon Appointed

The Rt Revd Libby Lane, Bishop of Derby, has appointed the Revd Emma Sykes as the next Archdeacon of East Derbyshire.

Emma is currently serving in the Diocese of Birmingham, where she has lived for nearly 30 years. She began her working life in the charity sector working with young people facing homelessness and other challenging issues. As a youth minister at St Michael's Church in Boldmere, she began to discern a call to ordained ministry. She trained at St John's College, Nottingham and, in 2008, was ordained at Birmingham Cathedral.

She served her curacy at St Martin in the Bull Ring and became Associate Rector there three years later. In 2014, she took a break from full-time ministry and took a 'portfolio' approach, taking on a variety of different roles as a self-supporting minister including being an assistant Diocesan Director of Ordinands and a Bishop's Advisory Panel advisor. She also worked part time for CPAS as a Leadership Specialist with a focus on young vocations and facilitating training for Curates and Incumbents.

In May 2020, she followed God's call back to fulltime parish ministry, into her current role as Vicar of St Barnabas Erdington and Oversight Minister for the Erdington Area. Emma has been a member of General Synod since June 2024.

CaRR – RE Focus

- Task group will finish at the end of March and provide recommendations. Dr Margaret James spoke about the implications for the CofE and our schools. There is a need to be cautious as this is a pivotal time. - Everyone is supportive of the work that if RE moves it secures high quality RE for all schools
- RE Content will have a lot of agreement from all involved
- Problem will be the legalities that safeguards the position of RE in church schools
- Once RE is in National Curriculum it will be under control of government (content, approach, pedagogy, theoretical underpinnings, philosophy)
- Cannot guarantee that a future government will want a critical, objective and pluralistic RE curriculum
- NSE will stand its ground for a critical, objective and pluralistic curriculum
- SACREs, with their different committee members representing faiths, no faiths, unions and council representatives, have that influence and that is how we ensure that the curriculum is one that we can support - influence and right of veto
- Legislative structure needs to ensure that right of influence and right to veto is held.

Withdrawal

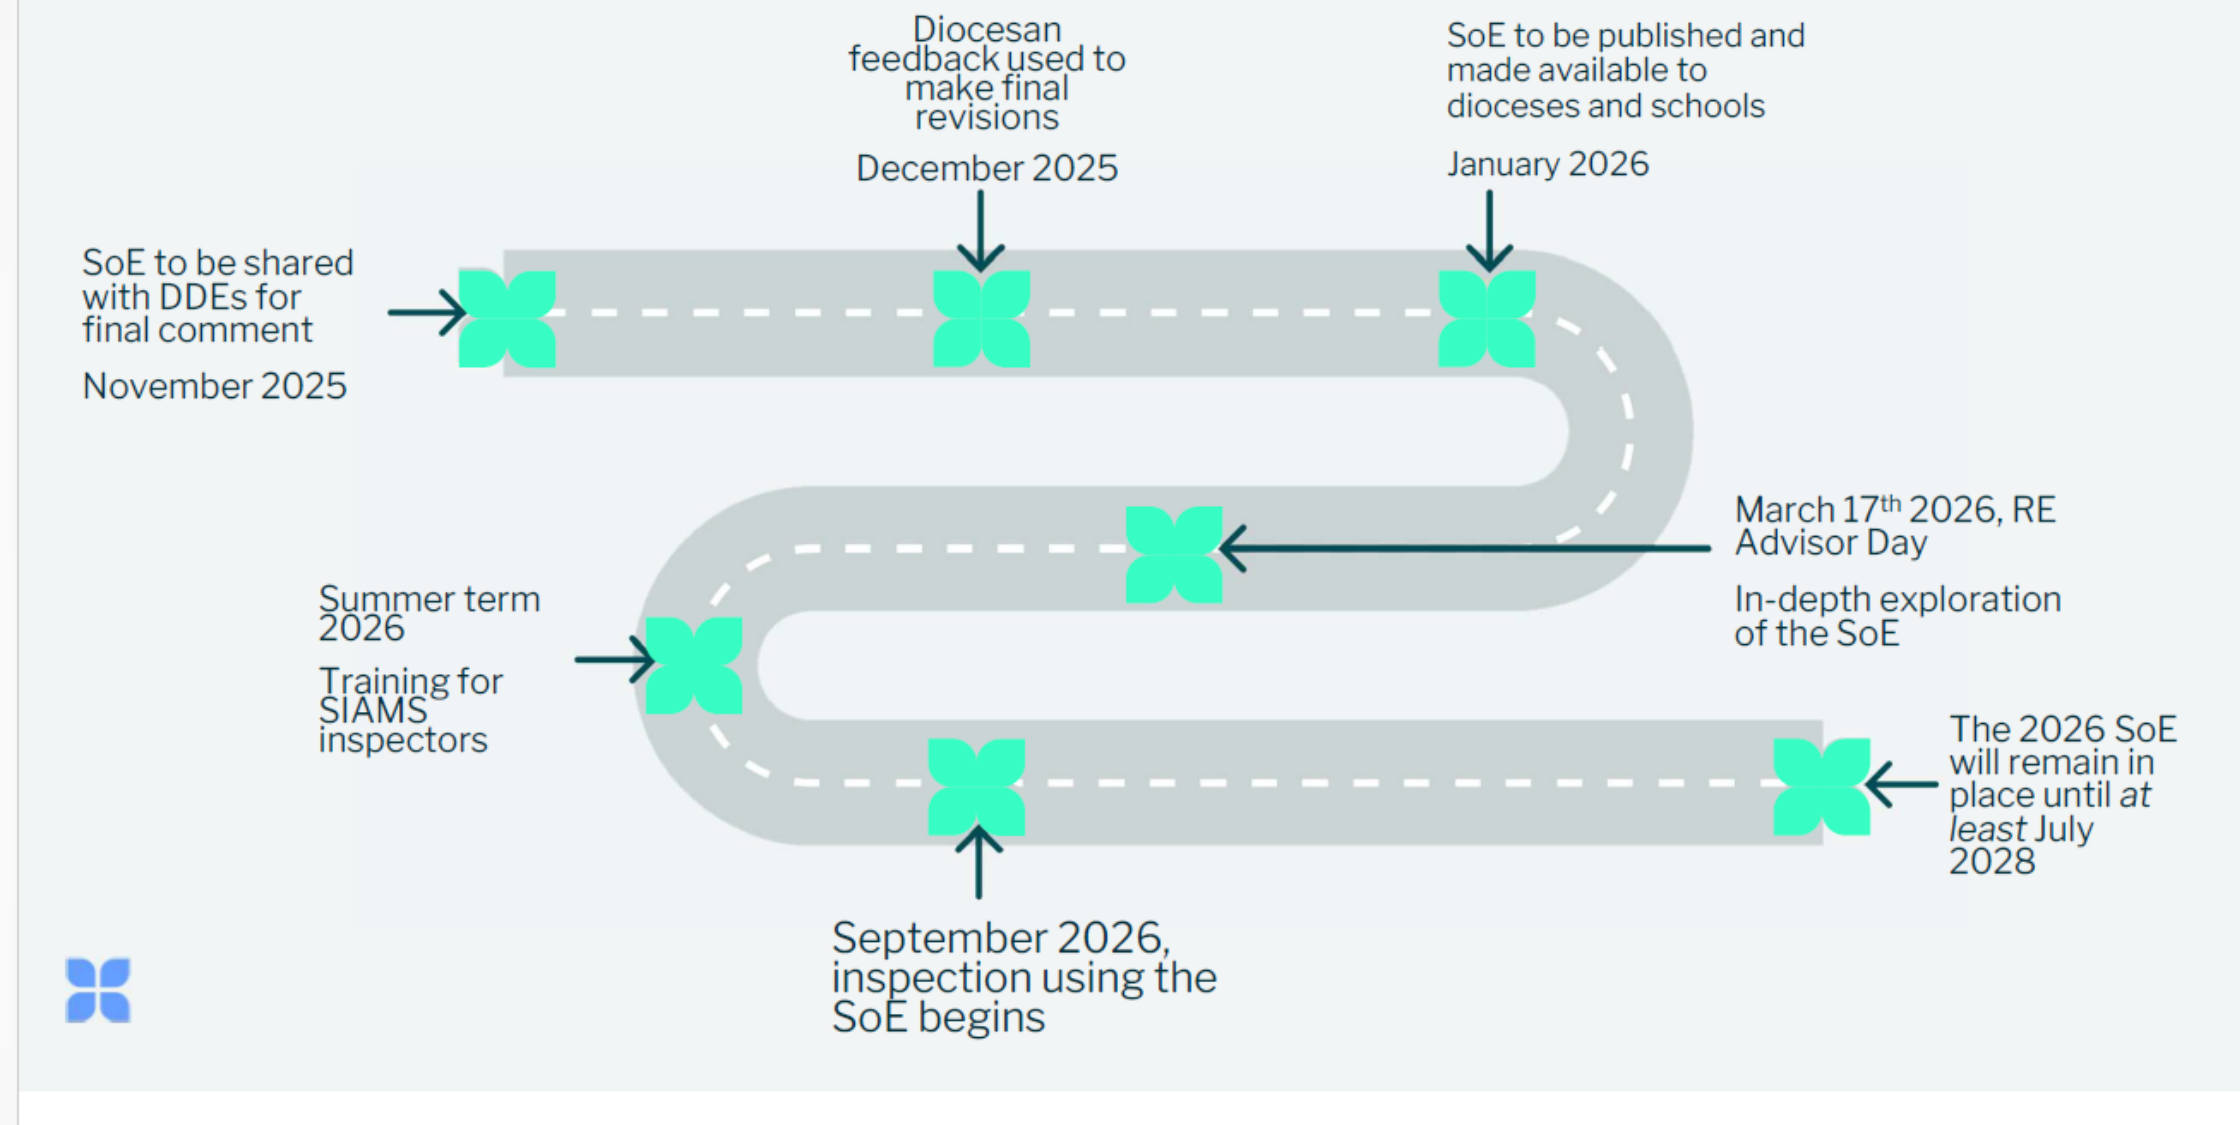

- Due to ruling from Supreme Court (see BBC news report Religious education: Supreme Court rules the Christian-focused RE taught in NI schools is unlawful - BBC News)
- Whilst the context within Northern Ireland is quite different from that in English schools where RE is required to be critical, objective, and pluralistic, there are elements of the ruling that are likely to have a direct impact on collective worship and RE for us.
- In particular, National Society for Education (NSE) expect that challenges may arise in the case of requests for pupils to be withdrawn from either RE or collective worship. NSE have received advice that schools would be wise to ensure that the burden on parents and/or pupils when requesting withdrawal are minimal to non-existent. The ruling highlighted that the requirement for parents to have to explain, justify, or expand in any way on the reasons underpinning their request was too burdensome.
- The NSE are going to be updating their central guidance to that effect as a matter of priority and they would strongly advise that we do the same in terms of the advice that we provide for schools. Far from wishing to tell us what to do, they simply make this suggestion to help us to avoid any chance of ourselves and our schools' practice being subject to legal challenge and judicial review. They will be advising that, on receipt of a request for withdrawal, head teachers immediately grant it, without imposing any additional burden on either parents or pupils as part of the decision-making process.

Withdrawal

- It appears that the definition of 'burdensome' includes having to speak with a school leader.
- Please consider all existing and previous guidance sent to us by the NS/NSE on pupils' right to be withdrawn from either RE or collective worship rescinded, effective immediately.
- There will be further discussion and support that can be offered at national level.
- Feedback in May but please questions, concerns...do say now, drop in chat as we go through or send to me.

NSE SoE Publication Plan

Will be published tomorrow so will send through to heads, office, governors and RE Leads. Training will be available from the middle of March. Those on the list for SIAMs 2026-27 will receive notification and an invite for training in the Summer Term.

Children's Wellbeing and Schools Bill

 - what the government aims to achieve through each measure

 - effects of the legislation
 - how the legislation will work in practice

Government to introduce MAT inspection

New academy trust inspections to boost transparency for parents and strengthen outcomes for children.

Trust inspection will ensure those decisions are subject to clear, independent scrutiny, while recognising, celebrating and backing strong trusts so every child benefits from the highest standards, wherever they live or go to school.

Church of England Resources

Draw Near is the official Church of England booklet for Lent 2026. This booklet encourages children, families, schools and church groups to build a habit of generosity with the help of 40acts (brought to you by Stewardship). Many people choose to “give something up” for Lent. Draw Near with 40acts invites you to turn that on its head: give things away, give time, give encouragement, and discover the joy of walking in generosity. As well as an act of generosity, each day also offers a simple Bible verse, reflection and prayer ideal for families, children, school and church groups to do together.
